Follow-up: document gaps, risk and account activity

Hi team,

A blanket refresh would create unnecessary customer friction, so Compliance wants a defensible prioritisation.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use April 2025 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Please start with the decision we need to make, then show whether the available evidence is strong enough to support it.

Can you test these explanations rather than choosing one at the start?
- higher-risk active accounts should lead
- many document gaps belong to inactive or closed accounts
- company ownership and cross-border activity create distinct needs

The decision is the refresh sequence, exclusion rules and customer-contact approach. Please give us a control view with the exceptions, owner and reason each item was included.

You should be able to build the evidence from monthly customer and KYC snapshots; monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; transaction-level timestamps, channels, amounts, statuses and error context. Completeness fields do not prove document validity or current legal sufficiency.

Thanks
