Follow-up: we have three definitions of active customer

Hi team,

Analytics is receiving requests that use the same business term for different populations, dates and customer relationships.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use May 2022 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Failure anecdotes are beginning to drive decisions, although retries and late posting may be making the problem look larger than the affected-customer population.

Can you test these explanations rather than choosing one at the start?

- an undocumented exclusion is changing the denominator
- the teams need different metrics
- snapshot timing creates the difference

The decision is the governed definition, owner, exclusions and reconciliation bridge. Please give us a control view with the exceptions, owner and reason each item was included.

You should be able to build the evidence from monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; monthly customer and KYC snapshots; transaction-level timestamps, channels, amounts, statuses and error context. A technically consistent definition still needs business ownership and approval.

Thanks
