Follow-up: do bundled products deepen relationships or just decorate accounts?

Hi team,

Product bundles are recorded at account level, but Pricing needs to know whether customers use optional features and remain active.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use December 2022 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Several teams are reporting more failed or retried activity than they expected, but they do not agree on the cause.

Can you test these explanations rather than choosing one at the start?

- default products are mistaken for cross-sell
- optional products deepen activity
- some bundles increase service contact without increasing use

The decision is which bundle components should be retained, repriced or removed from campaigns. Please give us a working Excel file with the exception population and clear columns.

You should be able to build the evidence from monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; transaction-level timestamps, channels, amounts, statuses and error context; customer contacts, complaints and suggestions; campaign design and customer responses. Product enrolment is not the same as product usage; define observable use before measuring adoption.

Thanks
