Follow-up: the dispute has three timelines and they do not agree

Team,

Before this becomes another standing report, can we answer the real question?

A customer dispute cannot be assessed from the complaint text alone because authorisation, posting, reversal and contact dates differ. The possible stories are that the complaint outcome does not match the underlying evidence, that a bank-side delay caused the loss, or that the customer saw a temporary posting as final.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use July 2023 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Several teams are reporting more failed or retried activity than they expected, but they do not agree on the cause.

Please prepare a one-page finding note plus the underlying CSV for our own review. The output must help us decide the evidence position and whether remediation should precede correspondence.

Data available: transaction-level timestamps, channels, amounts, statuses and error context; customer contacts, complaints and suggestions; ATM attempts, host responses, PIN attempts, blocked-card state and latency.

Please state the limitation plainly: Use statements only where they exist and do not invent merchant evidence or call recordings.

Thanks
