Follow-up: what should the bank not offer this customer right now?

Hi team,

Product wants a recommendation framework that suppresses offers after complaints, failed payments or unsuitable customer events.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use October 2023 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Several teams are reporting more failed or retried activity than they expected, but they do not agree on the cause. The first extracts did not reconcile, which means source precedence and exclusions must be part of the answer.

Can you test these explanations rather than choosing one at the start?

- recent behaviour identifies a useful product need
- service recovery should precede selling
- campaign eligibility differs from likely conversion

The decision is the decision rules and evaluation design for a controlled campaign. Please give us a working Excel file with the exception population and clear columns.

You should be able to build the evidence from monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; transaction-level timestamps, channels, amounts, statuses and error context; customer contacts, complaints and suggestions; campaign design and customer responses; the latest closed loan files available by the request date, including affordability, pricing and origination risk fields. Do not train on campaign outcomes without accounting for who was selected to receive each campaign.

Thanks
