Are we growing, or only creating more activity? - 2025 control review

Hi,

This came up in a working session and nobody had the same definition.

The headline activity story is positive, but EXCO cannot tell whether it reflects durable customer relationships or short-lived transaction volume.

I do not want a dashboard that simply counts the outcome. Start with the competing explanations: activity is concentrated in a small set of customers; service failures are creating volume without creating value; or new accounts are becoming primary relationships.

Please start with the decision we need to make, then show whether the available evidence is strong enough to support it. This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use March 2025 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion.

What we need to decide is where to invest and which headline measure should be retired from the management pack. Please bring a working Excel file with the exception population and clear columns, including a few cases we can trace from source to conclusion.

The available evidence is monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; transaction-level timestamps, channels, amounts, statuses and error context; customer contacts, complaints and suggestions; campaign design and customer responses. Do not describe account activity as profitability; the data does not contain a full revenue and cost allocation.

Thank you
