Approval rate is not the only funnel outcome

Team,

Before this becomes another standing report, can we answer the real question?

Loan Products wants to understand application drop-off, decline reasons, booked loans and early repayment stress as one journey. The possible stories are that affordability declines are concentrated by product, that documentation friction drives drop-off, or that some high-conversion channels create weaker early outcomes.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use October 2020 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Several teams are reporting more failed or retried activity than they expected, but they do not agree on the cause. The first extracts did not reconcile, which means source precedence and exclusions must be part of the answer.

Please prepare a working Excel file with the exception population and clear columns. The output must help us decide which application step, policy explanation or channel process should change.

Data available: the latest closed loan files available by the request date, including affordability, pricing and origination risk fields; monthly customer and KYC snapshots; customer contacts, complaints and suggestions; collections cases, promises to pay and recovery payments.

Please state the limitation plainly: Do not optimise approval rate without affordability, conduct and later-outcome controls.

Thanks
