Follow-up: before Legal responds, show exactly what happened to the account

Team,

Before this becomes another standing report, can we answer the real question?

Legal needs a chronology for accounts closed or restricted where transactions, debit orders or customer contacts continued around the status change. The possible stories are that the closure was operationally complete, that the main risk is poor communication rather than an incorrect decision, or that downstream activity continued after the status event.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use July 2021 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Several teams are reporting more failed or retried activity than they expected, but they do not agree on the cause. There are enough data exceptions to make a polished average dangerous; preserve the unresolved cases.

Please prepare a one-page finding note plus the underlying CSV for our own review. The output must help us decide whether the matter can be answered, remediated or requires formal legal review.

Data available: monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; transaction-level timestamps, channels, amounts, statuses and error context; debit-order mandates, collection dates, suspensions and cancellations; customer contacts, complaints and suggestions.

Please state the limitation plainly: The analysis can reconstruct events; it cannot determine legal liability or the undisclosed reason for a risk decision.

Thanks
