Are we growing, or only creating more activity? - 2023 control review

Team,

Before this becomes another standing report, can we answer the real question?

The headline activity story is positive, but EXCO cannot tell whether it reflects durable customer relationships or short-lived transaction volume. The possible stories are that activity is concentrated in a small set of customers, that service failures are creating volume without creating value, or that new accounts are becoming primary relationships.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use March 2023 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Failure anecdotes are beginning to drive decisions, although retries and late posting may be making the problem look larger than the affected-customer population.

Please prepare a working Excel file with the exception population and clear columns. The output must help us decide where to invest and which headline measure should be retired from the management pack.

Data available: monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; transaction-level timestamps, channels, amounts, statuses and error context; customer contacts, complaints and suggestions; campaign design and customer responses.

Please state the limitation plainly: Do not describe account activity as profitability; the data does not contain a full revenue and cost allocation.

Thanks
