Which bank was responsible at each point in the loan? - 2023 control review

Hi all,

I may be joining dots that do not belong together, so please challenge the premise.

A loan participation question has exposed confusion about which bank originated, serviced and carried each risk share. The operating teams agree that more journeys are failing; they disagree on whether the customer, the bank or a downstream party owns the failure. The first extracts did not reconcile, which means source precedence and exclusions must be part of the answer.

Could the answer be that servicing actions do not align with the stated role? Or are we actually seeing that customer-facing activity is being attributed to the wrong institution? I also do not want us to miss the possibility that the records clearly support the operating model.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use October 2023 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. The practical decision is which cases require document review and which are data-quality corrections. Please send a working Excel file with the exception population and clear columns; I need the exceptions and counter-examples, not only an average.

Work from loan participation and servicing records available by the request date; the latest closed loan files available by the request date, including affordability, pricing and origination risk fields; debit-order mandates, collection dates, suspensions and cancellations; collections cases, promises to pay and recovery payments. The dataset records roles and activity but is not the signed legal agreement.
