Which customer records genuinely need KYC attention first? - 2023 control review

Team,

Before this becomes another standing report, can we answer the real question?

A blanket refresh would create unnecessary customer friction, so Compliance wants a defensible prioritisation. The possible stories are that higher-risk active accounts should lead, that company ownership and cross-border activity create distinct needs, or that many document gaps belong to inactive or closed accounts.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use October 2023 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Failure anecdotes are beginning to drive decisions, although retries and late posting may be making the problem look larger than the affected-customer population. The first extracts did not reconcile, which means source precedence and exclusions must be part of the answer.

Please prepare a short decision pack with no more than five slides and an attached evidence table. The output must help us decide the refresh sequence, exclusion rules and customer-contact approach.

Data available: monthly customer and KYC snapshots; monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; transaction-level timestamps, channels, amounts, statuses and error context.

Please state the limitation plainly: Completeness fields do not prove document validity or current legal sufficiency.

Thanks
