Useful does not mean everyone should see it - 2023 control review

Team,

Before this becomes another standing report, can we answer the real question?

Teams are asking for customer identity, risk, income and contact fields in broad analytical extracts. The possible stories are that different projects require different retention and access, that most use cases need derived or masked fields, or that restricted identifiers are being copied for convenience.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use October 2023 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Failure anecdotes are beginning to drive decisions, although retries and late posting may be making the problem look larger than the affected-customer population. There are enough data exceptions to make a polished average dangerous; preserve the unresolved cases.

Please prepare a working Excel file with the exception population and clear columns. The output must help us decide the shared schema, restricted extension and audit trail.

Data available: monthly customer and KYC snapshots; monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; customer contacts, complaints and suggestions.

Please state the limitation plainly: Minimise access to identity, contact, protected and investigation fields; usefulness alone is not a lawful purpose.

Thanks
