Account opening is not the end of onboarding - 2024 control review

Hi team,

Branch Network wants to separate productive onboarding from accounts that never progress beyond opening and initial deposit.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use March 2024 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Failure anecdotes are beginning to drive decisions, although retries and late posting may be making the problem look larger than the affected-customer population. The first extracts did not reconcile, which means source precedence and exclusions must be part of the answer.

Can you test these explanations rather than choosing one at the start?

- some customer types need assisted follow-up
- card or online activation friction delays use
- first useful activity varies by branch

The decision is where branch coaching or onboarding process changes are needed. Please give us a working Excel file with the exception population and clear columns.

You should be able to build the evidence from monthly customer and KYC snapshots; monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; available initial-deposit records up to the request date; transaction-level timestamps, channels, amounts, statuses and error context; ATM attempts, host responses, PIN attempts, blocked-card state and latency. Do not rank branches on raw volume without controlling for opening month, customer mix and account type.

Thanks
