Audit wants the exceptions that became normal - 2024 control review

Team,

Before this becomes another standing report, can we answer the real question?

Audit is testing whether approvals, declines, restrictions and collections outcomes are consistent with recorded policy inputs. The possible stories are that overrides are rare and explainable, that missing data looks like an override, or that a channel or period has a materially different decision pattern.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use April 2024 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Several teams are reporting more failed or retried activity than they expected, but they do not agree on the cause.

Please prepare a control view with the exceptions, owner and reason each item was included. The output must help us decide the sample for process-owner walkthroughs and policy evidence.

Data available: the latest closed loan files available by the request date, including affordability, pricing and origination risk fields; monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; collections cases, promises to pay and recovery payments; monthly customer and KYC snapshots.

Please state the limitation plainly: The files do not contain every approval authority or policy version; flag unexplained differences rather than declaring misconduct.

Thanks
