The participation file needs an operational responsibility map - 2024 control review

Hi,

This came up in a working session and nobody had the same definition.

A loan participation question has exposed confusion about which bank originated, serviced and carried each risk share.

I do not want a dashboard that simply counts the outcome. Start with the competing explanations: servicing actions do not align with the stated role; the records clearly support the operating model; or customer-facing activity is being attributed to the wrong institution.

There is no confirmed problem yet; this is a request to test an assumption before it becomes policy. This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use July 2024 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion.

What we need to decide is which cases require document review and which are data-quality corrections. Please bring a model-ready table, data dictionary and an honest baseline, including a few cases we can trace from source to conclusion.

The available evidence is loan participation and servicing records available by the request date; the latest closed loan files available by the request date, including affordability, pricing and origination risk fields; debit-order mandates, collection dates, suspensions and cancellations; collections cases, promises to pay and recovery payments. The dataset records roles and activity but is not the signed legal agreement.

Thank you
