Next best action starts with next best silence - 2025 control review

Team,

Before this becomes another standing report, can we answer the real question?

Product wants a recommendation framework that suppresses offers after complaints, failed payments or unsuitable customer events. The possible stories are that service recovery should precede selling, that recent behaviour identifies a useful product need, or that campaign eligibility differs from likely conversion.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use February 2025 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. Please start with the decision we need to make, then show whether the available evidence is strong enough to support it.

Please prepare a short decision pack with no more than five slides and an attached evidence table. The output must help us decide the decision rules and evaluation design for a controlled campaign.

Data available: monthly account snapshots, status events, limits, product enrolments and signatories; transaction-level timestamps, channels, amounts, statuses and error context; customer contacts, complaints and suggestions; campaign design and customer responses; the latest closed loan files available by the request date, including affordability, pricing and origination risk fields.

Please state the limitation plainly: Do not train on campaign outcomes without accounting for who was selected to receive each campaign.

Thanks
