Where does a loan application become a customer problem? - 2025 control review

Team,

Before this becomes another standing report, can we answer the real question?

Loan Products wants to understand application drop-off, decline reasons, booked loans and early repayment stress as one journey. The possible stories are that affordability declines are concentrated by product, that some high-conversion channels create weaker early outcomes, or that documentation friction drives drop-off.

This has returned because the previous answer was useful but not strong enough to become a standing rule. Use July 2025 as the new evidence point rather than recycling the earlier conclusion. There is no confirmed problem yet; this is a request to test an assumption before it becomes policy.

Please prepare a Power BI page with drill-through to a reproducible case list. The output must help us decide which application step, policy explanation or channel process should change.

Data available: the latest closed loan files available by the request date, including affordability, pricing and origination risk fields; monthly customer and KYC snapshots; customer contacts, complaints and suggestions; collections cases, promises to pay and recovery payments.

Please state the limitation plainly: Do not optimise approval rate without affordability, conduct and later-outcome controls.

Thanks
