June 2019 new customer activation and channel setup

Hi Emma,

We are still in the early build-out phase, so Product wants to understand whether account opening is turning into real first usage.

Can you help us see whether newly opened customers are actually getting started after account approval? I mean first card use, first ATM cash withdrawal or deposit, first debit order, first statement request, and cases where a customer opened an account but had no useful activity afterwards.

Please split branch-assisted setup, ATM/card activity, debit-order setup and early service contacts. Also show customers who may need a simple welcome call because the first transaction failed, the card was blocked, or the account looks unused after opening.

Output can be a Excel extract. Keep it practical for branch and product teams; we need to fix onboarding friction before we scale campaigns.
